

August 20, 2007

Following up from our previous announcement last month, enclosed you will find our updated business cards and website address. As you may recall, last month we shared some exciting news. After nine years of helping clients, we have expanded our financial planning and investment management business with the opening of our new office, serving clients under the new name of RFC Financial Planners.

For the past five years, we were retained as consultants in the case planning department of Sigma Financial Corporation, providing: training, advice, investment strategies and financial planning recommendations to approximately 1,200 investment professionals across the country, in addition to normal duties of serving clients. On July 16, 2007 we relinquished these positions and are now focusing solely on you, our clients, at our new office. We are still affiliated with Sigma Financial Corporation as our broker dealer.

Your accounts, investments and statements will remain the same. You do not have to do anything.
